Building Anticipation – Setting the Context

Talk about dreams. Ask if anyone can anyone remember a dream they had recently. Talk about the difference between good dreams and bad dreams. Introduce the word nightmare.

Introduction

Tell the children: This is a story about a boy named James and his mom making a dream catcher.

Can anyone tell what a dream catcher is? Tell the children that long ago, Ojibway people used to make dream catchers to hang over their children's beds to catch the bad dreams.

Take a picture walk through the first few pages to identify the materials James needs for the dream catcher. Note the vocabulary word willow and ask the children to find the high frequency word please which first occurred in set 6.

Ask the children to read the rest of the story to find out how James and his mother make a dream catcher.

Discussion – Book Talk

Retell the story.

Ask the children what strategies they used when they were reading this story. This is a good time to recap strategies and point out some strategies you saw students using.

Ask: Do you think a dream catcher can catch dreams? Why or why not? What are some things you can do when you have a bad dream?

Shared and modeled writing. Working cooperatively with the children, write the procedure for making a dream catcher.

Creative Response – Independent Practice

Children can:

- make dream catchers. (Duplicate the instructions provided on the reproducible master for the children.)
