Graduation Profiles

June 2021

The Greater Victoria School District wishes to recognize and acknowledge the Esquimalt and Songhees Nations on whose traditional territories we live, we learn, and we do our work.

The Indigenous Education Department of the Greater Victoria School District

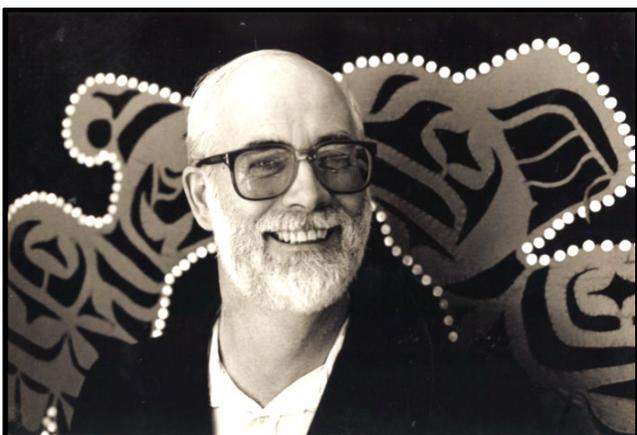

In Memoriam of Alex Clark 2021

In May this year, our dear friend and former colleague, Alex Clark, passed into the Spirit World. For over 30 years, Alex paddled with us in the IED canoe and retired in 2015. Alex joined us shortly after we started as the “Native Indian Education Program” at SJ Willis in the early 80’s and initially volunteered his time to listen and learn from the many Elders we had in our program like John Thomas, Henry Hunt, Emma Hunt and Jim Gilbert. The Elders would share and tell stories and Alex would always be there listening and observing. Over the years he integrated their stories and the traditional knowledge that he learned from working on the land and working with a variety of people up and down the coast. Alex was an animated storyteller who captivated thousands of students with his stories for over 30 years. He was always thrilled and excited when a student let him know that he was also their mother or dad’s teacher, and in some cases even the grandparents teacher.

Throughout his career, Alex brought his woodworking skills and creativity into classrooms to create 3 miniature long houses that represented the 3 Island Nations. They are big house models that still travel throughout the district for teachers to share with students, his range of skills enhanced the work of the Indigenous Education Division for years. He worked with students to create beautiful pieces of art work using traditional and contemporary design while always honoring the art of the traditional Indigenous people. Respect and honour were always woven into his work and teachings in the schools.

Alex crossed an intercultural bridge and exemplified how to listen and learn and how to share the stories and legends of Indigenous people. He demonstrated to others that cultures can be shared provided you lay a strong foundation of honour and integrity and acknowledge the source of the story. One of our basic teachings is that we are to be of service to our people and that we give back when we can. Alex demonstrated love for learning and teaching in so many ways.

We send deepest condolences to his family and friends and thank them for sharing him with us for so many years. We take some comfort in knowing that Alex is now with the Ancestors who guide our work.

He will take a gap year and then he plans to attend The Emily Carr University of Art and Design. He may also do an engineering degree. All the best to you, Calin and congratulations!

Hemasaka Scholarships

Hemasaka is the traditional name of retired teacher Victor Newman. In the Kwakwaka language, Hemasaka means “makings of a chief.” Carey Newman sponsors these scholarships to honour the many years of teaching that his father has given to him, his sisters and generations of students in the Greater Victoria School District. He and his family hope that the recipient of this scholarship will continue on with their education and go on to become a leader on whatever path they choose. The winners of these scholarships are:

Tulah Patterson

Tulah is graduating from Esquimalt High School and is a student with Métis Ancestry. Tulah plans to begin her post-secondary studies in art at Camosun College with a future plan to attend Concordia to complete a Fine Arts Degree. Her future goal is to become an art teacher. Congratulations, Tulah and all the best to you in your future endeavors!

Solona Taylor

Solona is graduating from Esquimalt High School and has ancestry from both the ‘Namgis Nation and the Ahousaht Nation. She is a creative and critical thinker and plans to attend the University of Victoria to pursue a degree in Humanities with plans to become a teacher. Congratulations, Solona and all the best in your post-secondary studies!

Cold Comfort Scholarships

On Canada’s 150 birthday, a local business called Cold Comfort Ice Cream wanted to do more to acknowledge that First Peoples have been connected to the land we know call Canada since time immemorial. To raise attention they displayed a sign on their business that said “Cold Comfort would like to acknowledge that we have been working on the traditional Lekwungen territory of the Esquimalt and Songhees people for the last seven years. INDIGENOUS PEOPLE HAVE BEEN STEWARDS OF “OUR” HOME ON NATIVE LAND SINCE TIME IMMEMORIAL. Moving forward, in the spirit of reconciliation, all proceeds from sales of scooped ice cream at Cold Comfort on July 1st will go towards creating a culinary bursary for an Indigenous high school student in our community.” It was immediately obvious hundreds of people felt similarly and wanted to help. So on top of ALL sales on that day many from the Victoria community donated towards the Cold Comfort Culinary Arts & Trades Scholarships. The winners of these scholarships are:

Aidan Bennett

Aidan is graduating from Spectrum Community School and has ancestry from the Okanagan First Nations and the Haida Nation. Aidan is both an athletic and academic student and is enrolled to start at Camosun College in the fall and plans to pursue a degree program. Congratulations, Aidan and all the best in your post-secondary studies!

Cold Comfort Scholarships (cont'd)

Aiden LeBlanc

Aiden is graduating from Esquimalt High School and is a member of the Tlicho Nation. He has been active in the Professional Cooks Training Program at Esquimalt High and plans to continue his training at Vancouver Island University in the fall to further his professional cook training. Congratulations, Aiden, and all the best in your future studies!

Richard Morgan-Tom

Richard is graduating from Victoria High School and is a member of the Hesquiaht Nation. Richard will be attending Camosun College in the culinary arts program. He loves to bake and plans to work in restaurants. Congratulations, Richard and all the best at post-secondary!

Lifting Each Other Up Culinary Arts & Trades Scholarship

On Canada's 150 birthday, two local businesses; Deadbeetz Food Truck and the Hot and Cold Café, wanted to do more to acknowledge that First Peoples have been connected to the land we know call Canada since time immemorial. As an act of reconciliation, on Canada's 150th birthday Deadbeetz displayed a sign on their business that said "Deadbeetz would like to acknowledge that we have been working on the traditional Lekwungen territory of the Esquimalt and Songhees people. WE RECOGNIZE THAT INDIGENOUS PEOPLE HAVE BEEN HERE SINCE TIME IMMEMORIAL. Moving forward, in the spirit of reconciliation, a portion of our profits from this event will create a culinary bursary for an Indigenous high school student in our community." The Hot and Cold Café also felt strongly about this, and the two businesses came together to create the "Lifting Each Other Up" Culinary Arts and Trades Scholarship. This Scholarship is for an Aboriginal woman or two-spirited person entering a culinary/trades/ or business careerfield. The winner of this scholarship is:

Claudette George

Claudette George is graduating from Esquimalt High School. She is a member of the Songhees Nation and is a member of the Lekwungen Dance Group. Claudette plans to attend Camosun College in the fall and is enrolled in the professional cook training program. Congratulations, Claudette and all the best at post-secondary!

Freda Shaughnessy Sports/Academic Scholarship

Freda was from the Kwicksutaineuk Nation and a champion of the Kwakwala language. She was originally hired by the Victoria school district in 1979 to teach the language at S.J. Willis Junior High. Since that time she continued to volunteer her time to sit on our district Education Advisory Councils putting in over 25 years to work on making a difference in the Aboriginal Education world. She was always concerned about her children, grandchildren and great grandchildren being supported at the schools. Freda also shared the voices and perspectives of the many youth she worked with at the Youth Custody Center and as a volunteer for street youth downtown. She exemplified dedication, commitment and honor and she role modeled what it means to be of service to the community. Freda was known as the T-Bird momma as she supported the T-Bird Soccer Clubs for 40 years. The winner of this scholarship is:

In Memory of Keoni Wilson, Gitxsan

Keoni passed away suddenly just short of his graduation. Our deepest condolences go out to his family.

Reflections from Spectrum school staff:

When I first met Keoni he had the brightest smile on his face as he introduced himself at the office. That day and the days after when we met I knew we had a very special young man coming to our school. Keoni was so well spoken and polite. I could see how very proud his family was of him as he was mature beyond his years. Keoni's sense of humour and personality allowed him to navigate a new school with success and build relationships not only with the students but the adults. Keoni made a lasting impression on all of us and we will never forget him.

Bruce Bidney, Principal

I loved working with Keoni, as a school counsellor at Spectrum. I instantly liked him from the first time he and his mom came to check out Spectrum. He was wise beyond his years and his introspect led me to refer to him as an old soul. He had an amazing quick wit and lovely sense of humour. He was working his plans for the future and curious about the Indigenous Education program at Camosun. He was thinking of possibly becoming a teacher. He wanted to work with people in some capacity—definitely talking to people. He was gifted at connecting. He was a bright light and a pleasure to be around. His loss will be felt by those that knew him and the world will have lost a beautiful soul. The world is a better place with kind souls in it. I am honoured to have worked with him and to have known him, if only for the time he was here. My thoughts go with his family and close friends. He was well loved.

Celeste Bradshaw, Counsellor

Thank-you Keoni for sharing your positive, happy and carefree outlook with us. Your thoughtful input to our discussions and learning about your life philosophy was always much appreciated by those of us around you. May you find peace.

Moira Raynor-Atterbury, Art Teacher

I am grateful to have had the wonderful opportunity to have had Keoni as a student on two occasions this year. Shortly after Keoni joined us at Spectrum, I had him as a student in English 12. After that, he was in my History of Rock and Roll course. In each course, Keoni was an insightful, thoughtful, mature, positive member of the class. He contributed to classroom discussions, he asked fascinating questions, and was always looking to extend his knowledge. Nearly every day afterschool, Keoni would stay behind after the other students had left, and we would talk. It is those conversations I will miss the most, but also cherish the most. We might talk about English, or music, or just life and things in general. He was never in a hurry to leave, but instead he just seemed to enjoy a chat. I enjoyed them very much. Keoni was not a 'typical teenager.' He was a very special person. In the short time I knew him, Keoni made a significant impact on me. He as a student, but more so as a person, is someone I am thankful to have known, and he is someone I will never forget.

Chris Parker, English 12 and History of Rock & Roll Teacher

In the short time I had the pleasure of getting to know Keoni, the thing I grew to love most about him was his propensity for thinking out of the box. "I'm an ideas guy," he once told me. On any given day, I would be at the front of the room explaining some principle or other to the class, and before I could finish his hand would go up. Keoni had been processing what I'd been saying, and more often than not he had a question. Not a straightforward, easy-to-answer question, but one for which there were a myriad of 'correct' answers, many of which I had never thought to consider. I appreciated those questions as they showed his desire to challenge the established rules of storytelling. On one occasion, he asked a question for which, after thinking long and hard, I couldn't give him an answer at all. I was resigned to replying, "That's a good question." Keoni snickered and said, "Thanks. I get that a lot." His questions were genuine in nature, asked in an attempt to push boundaries with the story he was intending to write. It saddens me greatly to know that that story will never be written. I will never get to find out what happened to the protagonist he created, the mysteriously-named Q, a curmudgeonly trucker with a painful past. Maybe, as I write this, Keoni is writing the story right now. Maybe the ideas guy is busy getting those wonderful, crazy ideas down, as he questions why things have to be the way they are. He taught me, the teacher, that there are no rules if you don't want there to be. That the ideas you have, as much as they may not fit into any ready-made box, are yours to do with what you will. Your story may not be to everyone's liking, but will it be better for it? I know the answer to that question. Thank you, Keoni.

Tom Gordon, Writing 12 Teacher

James would like to acknowledge and thank his mom, who is also his role model, for all her support and encouragement. Without her he would not have gotten this far. His advice to fellow students, "Take the opportunities given to you in schools. You will regret it if you don't."

Jon Su
Nuu chah nulth

Jon enjoys art and playing with the Thunder Indigenous Rugby Team. His future goal is to go to post-secondary. His favourite teacher has been K. Sholinder because she is fun and cool. Jon would like to acknowledge and thank his grandpa for all his support and encouragement and he is everything he aspires to be. His advice to fellow students, "Stop thinking so socially. School isn't just about friends."

Phoenix Underwood
Tsawout

Artemis Place Secondary School

Michaela Horne
Tsawout

Michaela would like to work for a while and then possibly pursue post-secondary. Her favourite teacher has been her English teacher because she is always in a good mood and motivates her when she is tired. Michaela would like to acknowledge and thank her mother-in-law Alice, for all the support she has shown towards her, her partner and daughter and also her parents Jack and Noni for all their encouragement. Her advice to fellow students, “No matter what, there will always be a way. Do not every give up on your dreams. You can do it if you put your mind to it.”

Emma Hubert

Ehattesaht/Nuu chah nulth

Emma's future plan is to pursue Indigenous Studies and Cosmetology. She enjoys fashion and art. She would like to thank all her teachers, counselor and friends for all their support throughout the years. Her role model is herself because she is open to change and self-growth. Her advice to fellow students, "Take the advice and put it towards your decisions, it really helps."

Justice Panter

Métis

Justice's future goals are to become a teacher and travel. She enjoys drawing and playing video games. Justice would like to acknowledge and thanks Erica, her Youth Transition Worker and her partner for all their support and encouragement throughout the years. She considers herself as her role model for her inner strength to keep moving forward. Her advice to fellow students, "Friends aren't more important."

Congratulations to all the Graduates of 2021!
